DRIVING IN JAPAN

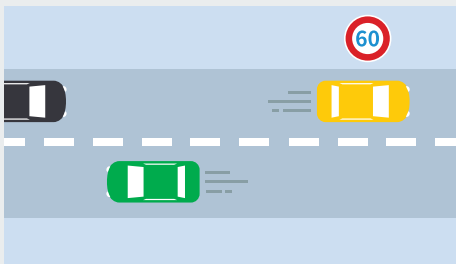

When you drive in Japan,
you must obey Japan's driving laws.

TRAFFIC RULES

Japanese traffic laws and etiquette apply in Japan.
For example, you drive on the left side in Japan,
just like in England and Australia, with the steering wheel on the right side of the vehicle.
Obey the rules and enjoy the difference in culture as you drive in Japan.

Drive on the left-hand side of the road

In Japan, vehicles usually drive on the left-hand side of the road. Be sure to obey any signs that indicate a speed limit. The legal speed limit is 60 km per hour on general roads and 100 km per hour on expressways.

The steering wheel is on the right side in Japan

In Japan, the steering wheel is on the right side. Make sure you obey the traffic laws and drive safely.

Wear your seatbelt while driving

All vehicle occupants in all seats must wear seatbelts. Penalties will be charged if seatbelts are not worn.

Child seats

Children under six years of age must be seated in child seats.

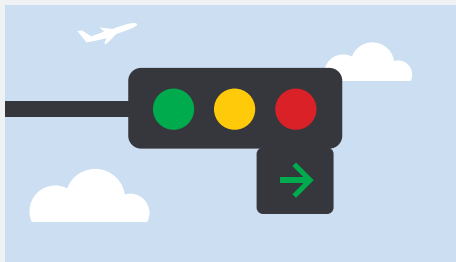

Traffic lights

A red light always means “stop”

If the light facing you is red, stop and wait for it to turn green.

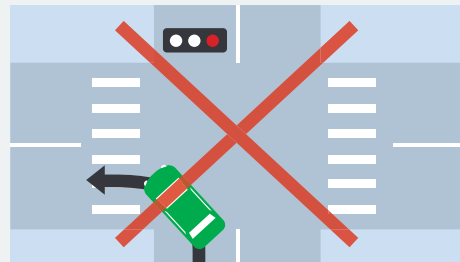

Follow the green arrow

If the light facing you is red, you must stop and wait for a green light. However, if you have a green arrow, you can turn only in the direction indicated by the arrow.

No turning is allowed at red lights

All cars must stop when the traffic light in front of them turns red, and are not permitted to go until the light turns green. This includes vehicles traveling straight ahead, as well as vehicles turning left.

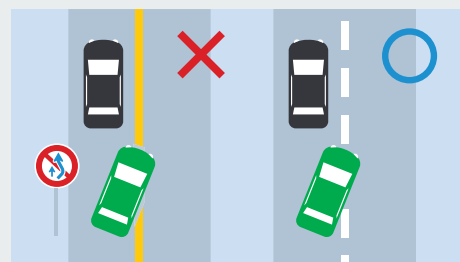

Vehicles turning right must yield

In Japan, vehicles turning left get the right-of-way. If you are turning right, the oncoming vehicle has the right-of-way. Wait until the oncoming vehicle has gone straight or turned left before you turn right. Pedestrians always have the right-of-way, whether you are turning left or right, so pay adequate attention to pedestrians when turning.

Be aware of no-passing zones

Passing is forbidden in zones with a yellow center line. Wait until you have gone through the no-passing zone and are able to pass in a safe manner.

If you have any trouble, please contact us immediately

If your vehicle breaks down due to a traffic accident or violation, you should call your pick-up location or the TOYOTA Rent a Car Reservation immediately. Keep a copy of the rental company's phone number handy just in case. Accidents must be reported even if the vehicle is still drivable. You can find a TOYOTA Rent a Car shop from the sign shown at right.

Call 110 for the police, and 119 for ambulance and fire assistance

If you are in an accident, first collect yourself and then look around to determine what you should do. Contact the police by calling the number 110, and describe the accident and its location. If anyone is injured, call the number 119 to summon an ambulance. You must call the police even in the case of a minor accident.

Driving under the influence of alcohol is strictly forbidden

You cannot drive after drinking alcohol. If alcohol is detected during a breathalyzer test, you will be penalized for driving under the influence. You may also be penalized if you refuse to take the test. Passengers who were not been drinking and those who encouraged you to drink can also face penalties. Drinking and driving is absolutely unacceptable, as it affects everyone around us.

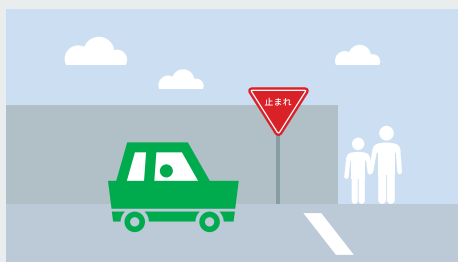

Temporary stops

Temporary stops require a complete stop

You must stop the vehicle completely and look both ways to ensure it is safe.

Always stop at railway crossings

Be sure to stop in front of the crossing, and look both ways to ensure there is no train coming, as well as at the road in front of you to confirm that you can cross the tracks safely.

Talking on a cell phone while driving is strictly forbidden

There are penalties for talking on a handheld cell phone while driving and for focusing on a screen to send or receive text messages.

FILLING UP THE TANK

There are two types of gas stations: the full-service kind, where an attendant is on hand to fill up your tank as per your request; and the self-service kind, in which you fill your tank by yourself. The explanation below is for the “self-service” kind.

1 Location of the fuel tank opening

The location of the fuel tank opening varies according to the vehicle; some have it on the right, and some on the left. When you pull up at a self-service gas station, you must have the fuel tank opening on the same side as the fuel pump. You can check what side the fuel tank opening is on by looking at the fuel gauge. It will be on the side indicated by a triangle near the fuel gauge readout.

4 Fuel types

There are three types of fuel used in motor vehicles: regular gasoline, high-octane (premium) gasoline, and diesel fuel.

2 Shut off the engine and open the fuel tank cover

Stop the vehicle with the fuel tank opening near the fuel pump and shut off the engine. Open the fuel tank cover and get out of the vehicle.

Notes:

- Gasoline is easily ignitable, so absolutely no fire sources are allowed while you are pumping gas.
- Some gas tank covers must be opened from outside the vehicle.

5 Touch the anti-static panel, remove the fuel tank cap, and fill up the vehicle

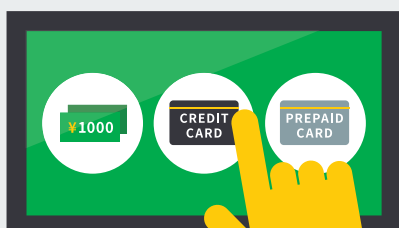

Once the specified fuel amount has been reached, you will hear a click and the fuel will automatically stop pumping. Overflowing fuel is dangerous, so do not top up the tank after it stops pumping.

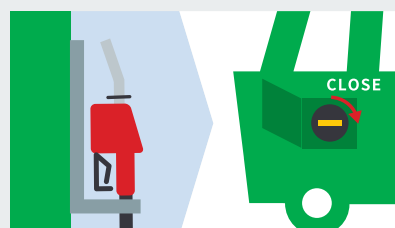

3 Choose a fuel type and payment method

Use the fuel pump's touch screen to select a fuel type, payment method, and fuel amount.

Note: Some gas stations require payment first, while others allow you to pay afterward.

6 Finishing and paying

PARKING RESTRICTIONS

“It was only for a few minutes,” or “I wanted to keep the car within eyeshot” — these are some of the excuses given by people who park on the road and get fined. Don’t waste your vacation money on parking fines! Park the vehicle in a parking lot instead.

Parking Violations are Stringently Controlled

- Parking violations are considered as such, even if the time that you illegally parked was short.
- In addition to the police, private contractors can also charge drivers with parking violations.

When a parking violation sticker is attached to a rented car

[Reporting to the Police Station]

Visit a police station in the same prefecture where the parking violation sticker was issued. Then visit a bank to pay the fine.

Notes:

- As soon as TOYOTA Rent a Car is contacted by the police, we will contact the customer.
- The fine cannot be settled at a police station.

[Informing the Shop Beforehand]

When you return the rented car after going through the formalities, you need to present

- documents received from the police and
- receipt for penalty.

Note: If you fail to complete the formalities before returning a rented car, we will charge you an illegal parking fee, designated by our company, of 25,000 yen for ordinary-sized cars and 30,000 yen for Semi Medium, medium-and large-sized cars.

Moreover, if you fail to A) complete the formalities or B) pay the illegal parking fee, we will report you to the police, Public Safety Commission, and Rent-a-Car Association; and any further requests from you for rental cars will be refused from all branches of TOYOTA Rent a Car and Rent-a-Car Association member companies in Japan.
