

Old folk houses from the six prefectures of Tohoku

"Furusato-mura Home village"

Nostalgic and warm. Encounter the original scenery of Tohoku.

The "Furusato-mura Home village" is a place that conveys the wisdom of life handed down from generation to generation along with the scenery of the farming villages of Tohoku. Visitors can enjoy exhibits and hands-on experiences, including old folk houses from six Tohoku prefectures that have been relocated and restored.

Old house of Honjo-yuri (Akita Prefecture)

This house is characterized by "Ryochumon-zukuri" style of build and is more than three times the size of a farmhouse in the area during the Meiji period.

Old house of Minami-aizu (Fukushima Prefecture)

A house from Aizu, a region with heavy snowfall. There is an entrance on the second floor in case of heavy snowfall. Lacquerware and woodworking tools are on display.

Old house of Tohno (Iwate Prefecture)

In the southern part of the Tohno region, the home of folk tales, we can see how people and horses lived together in this Nanbu Magariya style of building.

Old house of Kamafusa (Miyagi Prefecture)

This is a house from Kawasaki Town that was relocated when the Kamafusa Dam was constructed. You can also see the 600-year-old Yuda River pine tree.

Old house of Gassan foot (Yamagata Prefecture)

This is a multi-story sericulture house unique to the heavy snowfall area and is characterized by compensating for the small plot size in the mountainous area by building multi-storied buildings.

Old house of Naruse Riverside (Miyagi Prefecture)

This is a mezzanine-type sericulture house designed in preparation for floods, and the floorboards of the second floor can be removed for large-scale sericulture.

Old house of Tsugaru (Aomori Prefecture)

Made in the Tsugaru region, a region with heavy snowfall, this exhibit features Nebuta and a wooden horse dedicated to safe childbirth.
