MATSUE AND VICINITY

Matsue (松江), pop. 202,159 (as of Sep. 2019), the capital city of Shimane Prefecture, commonly known as the “City of Water,” lies at the point where Lake Nakaumi connects with Lake Shinji. Matsue is an old castle town forming the heart of Izumo Province (present-day Shimane Prefecture), a veritable “treasure house” of cultural assets and historic sites closely related to the myths and legends of yesteryear Japan. The city is especially well known among foreign visitors and Japanese students studying English because of its association with Lafcadio Hearn (1850-1904), the author of many books on Japan, who assumed the Japanese name of Yakumo Koizumi after his naturalization.

Places of Interest:

Izumo Taisha Shrine (出雲大社), is one of the oldest shrines with the longest history in Japan, and is well known for its god of marriage. It is dedicated to Okuninushi-no-Mikoto, a Shinto deity who has been traditionally credited with introduction of the art of medicine, sericulture and farming. The present shrine buildings, mostly built in 1667, lies at the foot of Yakumo hill and are approached through an avenue protected by magnificent pine trees. The precincts contain a large number of buildings, including the huge 24-m-high main shrine dating from 1744 (designated as a National Treasure), which is surrounded by a Triple fence. The shrine follows the earliest style of architecture known in Japan, and is dignified and rather imposing in appearance.

A pair of large rectangular shrine buildings standing on the east and west sides of the precincts are traditionally believed to accommodate the Shinto gods, who are supposed to meet annually at the shrine in October (lunar calendar). October is thus called "Kannazuki" (a month without gods) in all other parts of Japan and "Kamiarizuki" (a month with gods) in Izumo province.

Cape Hinomisaki (日御碕), 25 min. by bus (5 services in a day) from Izumo-Taisha bus stop, is located at the west end of Shimane peninsula. You can command unique and extraordinary landscape faced with Sea of Japan from the top of Hinomisaki Lighthouse (日御碕灯台), the tallest masonry lighthouse in Japan. [Lighthouse] Open: 9:00-16:30.
