Yakushima (屋久島) is an almost circular island having a circumference of 132 km and is located approximately 60 km SSW of Cape Sata on the Osumi Peninsula of Kagoshima Prefecture. It has an area of approximately 505 km<sup>2</sup>, and is mountainous. Mt. Miyanoura-dake (1,936 m) and Mt. Nagata-dake (1,886 m), said to be the highest peaks in Kyushu, stand at the center of the island and are surrounded by mountains towering over 1,800 m above sea level. One prefectural road encompasses the island, and it takes roughly 3–4 hours to drive around. Here and there along the prefectural road, one comes across Yakushima monkeys (“yakuzaru”), and Yakushima deer (“yakushika”). These animals are in particular abundance along the 13 km long Seiburindo Forest Path.

The climate along the coastal area of the island is subtropical, and this area is also part of the northernmost periphery of the band of Okinawan banyan trees. The summit area is classified as a cool temperate zone, and sometimes over 2 m of snow can be seen accumulating around the distant mountains. The rainfall is most extreme around the northeastern part of the island, but the southwestern part sees the greatest number of sunlight hours in all of the Seinan Islands. Visitors can enjoy the climates of both the Japan Sea and the Pacific Ocean. In 1993, the huge Yaku Cedar trees growing in the island’s mountains was designated as a World Heritage (Natural Property).

Transportation within the island is by taxi and bus, with buses coming around once every hour. A part of the road on the western side of the island is so narrow and has so many twists and turns that local buses do not operate there. You have to come back along the same road or use a taxi to go through. Please note the timetable before you go.

① Shiratani Unsuikyo Ravine (白谷雲水峽)

30 min. by bus from Miyanoura Port, is a primeval forest located at 600–1,300 m. You can see Yakusugi cedar trees in this 424 ha. area. This area is perfect for hiking and a day trip. Primeval forest courses of 60 min., 3hrs. and 4 hrs. are available within the forest recreation area. The mountain path to Mt. Miyanoura-dake, the highest peak on the island, crosses over this area and takes you to Tsuji Pass, Wilson Stump, Daio-sugi Cedar, and Jomon-sugi Cedar. This area contains many natural evergreen trees, including Yakusugi cedars, and rare ground plants like ferns and moss. You can also see the clear Shiratani River flowing through the area, giant rocks piled on top of each other, and the perpendicular rise of the gorge. This and the assortment of river bank azaleas and cherry azaleas make this area a natural garden. Admission: ¥500.

② Yakusugi Land (Yakushima Cedar Land) (ヤクスギランド)

40 min. by bus from Anbo, located on a plateau between 1,000 and 1,300 m high, is an area where visitors can easily appreciate Yakushima primeval forest with its Yakusugi cedar trees of several thousand years old. It is designated as a natural recreation forest. It has an area of 270.33 ha. It offers facilities like a 9-km hiking path (with 4 courses,

The bus ticket must be bought in advance (¥2,380 for round trip incl. donation for “the Yakushima’s Mountain Environmental Conservation program”). Taxi users are also asked to make a donation for the program through the taxi company (from ¥1,000 per day). Your donation helps covering the cost of managing the traffic restrictions and maintaining the parking lot and toilets of the Jomon-sugi Arakawa Route. It is preferred to have full mountain gear. You need to be prepared for emergencies, and it is recommended for a beginning climber to have a guide. You also need to register and report your trekking schedule before climbing. Jomon-Sugi is said to be 6,300 or 7,200 years old. It was well known in the Edo Period. Located at 1,300 m on the highest point of the Okabu (Great Stump) path, this is the oldest cedar tree in the world. Visitors may not touch the tree to ensure its preservation.

Mt. Miyanoura-dake is the highest mountain in Yakushima (1,936 m). The approximately 1,000-m high mountains that form the outer circumference of Yakushima Island are called the “Mae-dake” (rear mountains), and the higher peaks that rise in the center of the island are called the “Oku-dake” (far mountains). In addition to these, the three peaks of Miyanoura-dake, Nagata-dake (1,886 m), and either Kurio-dake (1,867 m) or Kuromi-dake (1,831 m) are sometimes called the “San-dake” (three peaks). The flower garden with its cherry azaleas, pieris, Saigoku trefoiled azaleas that bloom in Apr. to May., and rhododendrons that bloom in early Jun., is a sight that cannot be seen elsewhere.

④Yakusugi Museum (屋久杉自然館)

Yakusugi Museum is a testimony to the fact that mankind and nature can coexist in one environment. Yakusugi Cedar Trees (屋久杉), growing naturally in the island's mountains, are well known for their longevity. Some are 1660 years old. Open: 9:00–17:00. Closed: 1st Tue. of month, New Year holiday. Admission: ¥600.

⑤Ohko-no-taki Waterfall (大川の滝)

1 hr. 35 min. by bus from Miyanoura Port or 60 min. by bus from Anbo Port, is the highest waterfall in southern Kyushu. Its sudden and precipitous drop of 88 m and its sheer water capacity make it the greatest waterfall on the island. Visitors can walk right up to the area directly below the falls. This waterfall has been selected as one of “the best 100 waterfalls in Japan.” The clear water pool in front of the waterfall has also been selected as one of “the best 100 bodies of water in Japan.”

⑥Toroki Falls (トロキの滝)

20 min. by bus from Anbo Port get off at “Botanical Research Park” bus stop, is a rare waterfall in Japan because the river falls directly into the ocean. When the water rises, the waterfall sounds like thunder from the sky, so it is called Todoroki (meaning “roar” in Japanese) Falls.

⑦Senpiro Falls (千尋の滝)

50 min. walk from “Botanical Research Park” bus stop, has a 60-m crest, and the water normally falls down the center, but when it rains, water falls over the entire rock face, creating a spectacular display. From the observation deck right in front of the waterfall, one can see the villages and fields spread out in front, the views of the town, the beautiful coast-line, and the vast sweep of the Pacific Ocean beneath.

⑧Yakushima Fruit Garden (屋久島フルーツガーデン)

⑨Nagata Inaka-hama Beach (永田いなか浜)

30 min. by bus from Miyanoura Port, is a weathered granite shoreline in Nagata. This is the spot on Yakushima Island where most sea turtles come up on land, and scientists have confirmed that this is one of the major sites in the world for the spawning of loggerhead turtles and green sea turtles (peak spawning season is from late-May to July). If you wish to observe sea turtles, it is highly recommended to join observing tours and follow instructions by locals, especially in night time, to protect natural environment. Since the tide here has a strong pull, visitors should be careful about letting children bathe in this area. The sand here has very little black mica content.

15 min. by bus from Miyanoura Port get off at “Shitoko” bus stop and walk 5 min. to Yakushima's the biggest Banyan park on the coral reefs. It began with a 15-m high great Banyan tree that's said to be 500 years old, mandarin oranges, big Alocasia odara, and you can see many other sub-tropical plants. Open: 8:30–17:00. Admission: ¥200.

Specialty Products:

Yakushima Tankan (屋久島タンカン)

Tankan is a fruit that is juicier and sweeter than a Ponkan orange (shaddock). Many people who visit the island during the harvest season, from Feb. to Mar., enjoy its delicious taste. This fruit is a cross between a Ponkan orange and an orange.

Kame-no-te

Kame-no-te is a type of shellfish. People of the island call it by the familiar name of “Se.” It is in season from Apr. to Jun., and it looks like a turtle’s paw, so it was given the name “turtle’s paw,” or “kame-no-te.” Boiled in salt water or added to miso soup, it also makes a delicious soup stock with an aroma of the sea. It is also added to rice, making a dish called “Kame-no-te Gohan.”

Yomegasa

Yomegasa is a type of shellfish that can be harvested in Yakushima. They adhere closely to the wave-battered rock faces and are difficult to see clearly. Their numbers have dwindled recently. They are delicious when eaten raw or grilled.

Tankan, Passion Fruit Juice

These drinks are sold at “Yakusugi Land”, “Pontan-kan” and other places.

Yaku-saba (mackerel) (屋久さば)

Yaku-saba has been decreasing recently, but it is one of the tastiest mackerels in Japan. To preserve their freshness, their necks get broken as soon as they are caught, and this “Kubiore Saba” (Broken Neck Mackerel) is well known for its use as sashimi. “Saba-bushi” is one of the specialty products that is produced from the Yaku-saba. They are also used to make soup broth in the Kanto area.

Yakushima-age (屋久島揚げ)

Yakushima-age is a food made from deep-fried, minced flying fish.

Tobiuo (Flying Fish) no Ichiya-boshi (とびうおの一夜干し)

Tobiuo fishing is in season from spring through summer. This food is made by drying out flying fish overnight.

Yakusugi Cedar Handicrafts (屋久杉工芸品)

Yakusugi handicraft items like flower vases, urns, plates and dolls are made from “Domaiboku” which is the wood from Yakusugi cedar trees that have fallen on the forest floor and have not rotted.
