GO TOKYO

Tokyo is a centre of culture and trendsetting, and the best way to get to know Japan is to take a walk through its streets. From temples and shrines over 1,000 years old, to art incorporating cutting-edge technology, you are sure to encounter sights that embody the spirit of today’s Japan.

1 Sensoji Temple
Tokyo’s oldest Buddhist temple, built some 1,400 years ago, and dedicated to Kannon Bosatsu. Nakamise-dori Street, leading from Kaminarimon Gate, symbol of Asakusa, to Hozomon Gate, is lined with sweet and gift stalls, and is always bustling with tourists.
www.senso-ji.jp/

2 Kimono Experience
Asakusa has many shops where you can rent a colourful kimono. Walking around the streets and having your photo taken in traditional Japanese garb is a fun way to get closer to Japanese culture.

3 Mt. Takao
A 599-metre mountain in Hachioji City, Mt. Takao attracts members throughout the year. You can take a cable car or chairlift halfway up.
